Password: 0c4a5b7b3f5cf3e813f35b4c2260 ===== A: DataFrame.toJSON returns a dictionary, and your error is telling you that you can't apply to_dict() to a dictionary. In Python 3.7+: A dictionary is converted to JSON when the JSON module is imported, so this can be a simple fix: import json df.to_json(orient='records', header=True) In Python 2.X: The JSON module is not imported by default. You can either manually import it, or use json.dumps to do the same thing. Evaluating a Structural Remodeling program: Trends in Operations and Maintenance: Evaluating a Structural Remodeling program: Trends in Operations and Maintenance The United States Geological Survey develops and implements a National Model for Remodeling, Repair and Retraining of Dangerous and Structurally Deficient Buildings to increase safety and improve the durability and operational efficiency of buildings. Since the program began, architectural and engineering professionals have contributed to the development and implementation of the National Model and have made valuable contributions to our understanding of the effectiveness of the model. The evaluation of the program can help shape a more robust model for remodeling, repair, and retraining of dangerous and structurally deficient buildings. The evaluation will help determine if the National Model should be extended and will help identify structural deficiencies and risk to national infrastructure. Transcriptional regulation of
