Optical-fiber wideband digital microwave radio waveguide: an innovative technique for temperature measurement. An innovative technique for the measurement of temperature in gases flowing along optical fibers using the spectral broadening due to the Raman effect is presented. Optical radiation is launched into the fiber, and the free-space radiation is redirected to the receiver, thereby eliminating any concern about physical contact between gas and fiber surface. The proposed novel technique offers a simple, reliable, nondestructive, and contactless measurement of temperature. Mehrnoush Omarzadeh's parents are determined to put the memory of her daughter to rest after the suspect was arrested and found not guilty of murdering the 23-year-old. But they say the experience has been painful for them and their children, who have even been left questioning their own safety. "My daughter just graduated from the university. She was so hopeful and full of life. After her death I have lost my appetite," Mrs. Omarzadeh, who lives in Toronto, said in an interview last week. "I spend my time with my grandchildren. The memory is so painful that I haven't even started to get used to my daughter's death." Her husband, Mr. Omarzadeh, said he has lost sleep over what happened to his wife and has difficulty raising his children. "When the Canadian police told me that they took her as a hostage, I thought that I would never see my daughter again," he said in an interview last week. "I don't know if this makes me feel better, but at least I get to get up and see the sun and go fishing." The Canadian officials said that Ms. Omarzadeh had been dropped off at the bus terminal on the evening of May 17, 2010. She then proceeded to a local mall where she worked as a receptionist for three months. Early on the morning of May 18, she took the bus to Metrolinx, the regional transportation agency, where she then boarded a train to Union Station. Ms. Omarzadeh was reportedly intoxicated and may have been unsteady on her feet when she boarded the bus. When Ms. Omarzadeh did not arrive home, her parents went to the Metrolinx office, where they discovered that she had been dropped off there, the officials said. They went to her place

What's New In Photoshop 2021 (Version 22.4.2)?

I'm honored to have been selected as a speaker at the ElectricCity conference, the premier networking event for energy efficiency professionals in North America. I'll be speaking about the critical role you play in achieving energy saving for your customers and show you how it's done right. This presentation will cover the following: Who are the customers for energy efficiency programs? How can they be engaged? And what are the most effective ways to get them to adopt energy saving measures? How can building engineers and facility managers be convinced to participate in energy efficiency programs? How can you effectively work with third party energy companies to meet the needs of your customers? Why I'm excited about electriccity.org and the work we're doing to make energy efficiency easy. Energy Brokers & Power Corruptors: Why You Need to Know Your Options By Peter King Power corrupts, and when that's the case it's a bad situation. We've become so dependent on the power we get from the grid that we forget that that's an artificial arrangement that's governed by a handful of companies and people. When we get power from electricity utilities or the natural gas providers, we are essentially being held hostage by those companies and the handful of individuals and families that run them. So, what's our natural role in protecting ourselves from this situation? Should we spend our time complaining that we don't get the power we need to get things done? Or should we find out what options there are and demand that we be allowed to have that power? Unfortunately for us, our energy options are either very limited or extremely limited. The truth is that utilities don't want you to have that kind of power because they fear losing their monopoly. That's why there are very few organizations that we know of that act as power brokers. Organizations like Compete Energy or the Local Exchange Trading Initiatives (LETI) are both for-profit entities whose mission is to promote energy efficiency. They are not part of the transmission and distribution system, but they serve the power consumer side and are very aware of how that role could be leveraged to our advantage. If we have power brokers that are promoting energy efficiency, the question for us becomes, what are we going to do with that power? At Energy Brokers we are looking to answer that question by creating
