I've spent my life reading about the American Civil War (at least anything that gets bought here in the UK, that is). I wish I was an American history buff, even though I've only been here for a couple years. I definitely wish I could have experienced what it was like to live through it. With the digital age, we can, and will get a feel for what life was like back then. People could act in ways we don't even understand. But, with the rate at which what happened in the war is being revised, it is very exciting to hear about when these things actually happened. I've learned a lot about what we went through, and got to see how the values of the average american really were. I wonder what it's like to live through the war now. Is it like last time, where you could actually watch it unfold like a major TV event? Hm, maybe I could have once lived in a time like that. But I have been through some of the past wars too, and even though this time isn't as "popular" as the last, I think it's on average an interesting period. just might read that one. Alas, someone already beat me to it. --KChardonnay, Syrah and Merlot St. Helena Valley Enjoy the varietals of the $40 to $60 price range. Chardonnay Appellation: Napa Valley, Lake County This wine is made from the cool and rainy conditions of the valley's borders. The grape varieties harvested here vary by season depending on the weather. In general, the cooler days and nights are known for their Chardonnay. The warm days and nights give Merlot and Cabernet Sauvignon their flavor. History: With full production of Chardonnay more than 90 years ago, Napa Valley's reputation as a grape region began to take off. Great winemakers like Guy Drouhin, Robert Mondavi, Frank Eyssen and Ed Hansen were pioneers who shaped the region. Our Current Favorites: J. Lohr's Clos Pepe Origin: Napa Valley, California We're all about white wines from California's Napa Valley. J. Lohr's Clos Pepe is one of our favorite White Burgund
