The secret's out: A modern life is a deceptively beautiful place to live The secret's out: A modern life is a deceptively beautiful place to live by brian smith | April 27, 2011 In an industry where upand-coming talent often have difficulty finding their way up the ladder, a young, bright and very talented couple, Jia and Huang, decided to craft a one-of-a-kind store that would combine their talents as a photographer and videographer, with Huang's background in textile design and architectural photography. Jia and Huang, both 24, opened Tomorrow & Today, their popular concept store that features handmade contemporary furniture and accessories in a 30,000 square foot space in West Hollywood's "Hollywood-Highland" district. They started out in 2007 with a small space on the first floor of their then studio. Today, Tomorrow & Today has moved to a second floor space in the "Hollywood-Highland" district of West Hollywood, California. The couple took over a space previously occupied by a restaurant and brought with them the vision and design of their concept that now includes a mix of contemporary furniture, eclectic accessories and fine jewelry that their customers can choose from in-store, as well as in their online retail boutique. Today, Tomorrow & Today boasts an eclectic collection of furniture, lighting, and accessories that are both functional and often expensive. Their furniture collection includes items that can be used or displayed as decor for the home as well as for outdoor entertaining or for a party. Items that are inspired by nature and include pieces that mimic the appearance of foliage, flowers, and patterns. Jia and Huang This antler chandelier is just one of the many items featured in their in-store retail boutique, which also has a separate floor for their online retail boutique, where they sell furniture, lighting, and accessories online. As you can tell, their concept is to make more than store furniture. While their furniture and accessories are attractive, they are also refined, hand-made, and many are antiques. Their furniture also includes a mix of modern and transitional. For example, one of their desk lamps is an antique cylinder iron with a bronze finish. Their collection

I'm going to get personal. I'm going to give you the dirt. I'm going to tell you what I like, what I hate and what I think you should be ashamed of. I'm going to tell you everything. What you need to know: When I first read Cosmo, I thought it was pretty much the best magazine I've ever read. But there was one problem. I could tell you what I liked, I could tell you what I hated, I could tell you what I thought people should be ashamed of and I could tell you what I thought you should be proud of. But I couldn't tell you what I wanted. I'd never really asked myself what I actually wanted from a magazine. And now I've realised that I'm not alone. Every single reader has their favourite magazine - and they don't always agree with what the magazines say about them. Why? To you, Cosmo may seem like a fun read. But that doesn't make it so. Cosmo is a magazine. A magazine can tell you how to make your hair a million different ways - or it can tell you how to make your life a misery. It's up to you. The dirty little secret: You may prefer to read Cosmo with your date or a friend. You may prefer to scroll through your Instagram feed and read the story of someone else's life. And you don't have to have a subscription to use the app. Why? Well, because we actually care about you. We like you. You are someone that we want to get to know, and you're
