[Study on the structure of light hydrocarbons and aromatic hydrocarbons using stationary column gas chromatography-mass spectrometry]. The authors utilized a carbon-Silica stationary phase (Stark) for the high-resolution column gas chromatography-mass spectrometry (HRGC-MS) analysis of light hydrocarbons and aromatic hydrocarbons under conditions of very high resolution. In contrast to conventional analysis of low-polarity compounds by HRGC-MS, it is difficult to resolve isomers with very high resolution using a low-polarity fractionation column due to the large peak width of each isomer. In order to improve the separation of isomer peaks, they used a tilted column with a stationary phase gradient under pressure-program control. Under optimal analytical conditions, the retention indices of the isomers of propane, propene, and 2,3-butadiene were determined using the methods of n-alkanes standards. The retention indices of benzene, toluene, ethylbenzene and xylenes were determined using the method of GC-MS analysis of n-alkanes standards under the same conditions. A compound with a retention index of 85 exhibited the characteristic mass spectra of benzene and toluene and was identified as xylenes. The isomers of polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons (PAHs) were resolved with very high resolution. The retention indices of three naphthalene isomers on the tilted column were measured by using the method of GC-MS analysis of GC isomer standards under the same conditions. The retention indices of two benzanthracene isomers were measured by using the method of GC-MS analysis of GC-MS standards under the same conditions. The authors applied c9d1549cdd

Mass O' Kyzt is a first person arena based platformer inspired by games like Super Meat Boy and Spelunky. While the emphasis is on platforming, you will be faced with upgrades and tweaks to your abilities and equipment during the course of your travels, so be sure to expect the unexpected! The game features a team of 2 main characters: - A flying monkey named Ky - A stoic robot named Jarvis Each player can possess a variety of firearms and grenade launchers. Each of these items is made of Special Energy, a highly valuable resource. By collecting Special Energy from defeated enemies, you can either use it as ammunition for your primary weapons, or to upgrade your weapon to be more powerful. Special Energy cannot be made by the player, so it must be scavenged from the world itself. You can choose to shoot at Ky or Jarvis, and can switch between them at any time. When at full health, Ky can fly and can strafe using his quadrupedal upper body. Jarvis can be moved by tapping and holding; when you have him out of the way, he can strafe and fire his own special weapons. Two types of weapons can be found throughout the levels, a Primary Weapon, and a Special Weapon. Ky has his own melee attack, while Jarvis can use his legs to punch enemies. They can be made to be weaker, stronger, faster or slower. During the game, you will face Kyztlings, an alien race which are your main enemies. Kyztlings are controlled by a psionic hivemind known as the Kyzt. The Kyzt is able to control multiple Kyztlings simultaneously with a thought, and the hivemind tries to communicate to you through cliched advertising and slogan-esque messages. The Kyzt wants you to join their benevolent society, to join the Kyzt, and to follow them to Ky. If you don't buy their slogan, then Ky will communicate through music; this is what will cause him to drop bombs at you, and is the real killer of the game! Some places may let you buy a scanner device which will allow you to see the Kyzt, and you may also see their intent manifest in the world. When the Kyzt are determined to gain sufficient power, they will launch an invasion against mankind, using everything from special attacks to earthquakes. You will need to fight them off before it's too late.
