In addition to the fight battles in the game, there are also missions. Players can play the story of the game as the main story or play the missions separately. Missions will affect the main story of the game, and the story of the game can be replayed. It's an RPG where you can play the story of the game as you like. If you choose to replay the main story, you can go to places you could not go to before and try out the game a different way.
