Online Browsing Traditional Tower Defense with Pass-and-Proceed Siegecraft Commander is meant for two-player play. During the search, you will likely find one or both players exclaiming "I never thought that would happen!" This comment could simply be a sign that you're an expert. Or it could be a sign that they are looking to learn more about how you play the game. Or it could simply be an exclamation of joy because they just discovered a new strategy. It could also be a sign that they've found something that is unfair or too hard. So, if you see your friends doing this, rather than being frustrated, be thankful. Rather than trying to get them to play a different game or to work harder at it, try teaching them the strategy of your play. Siegecraft Commander is meant for two-player play. You may find yourself with not one but a whole group of players either looking at Siegecraft Commander trying to discern what strategy it takes to get the best output. Or you may find yourself trying to explain something that you've learned to these people. So, if you think you might be playing alone, please consider having others join.
