From Slavery to Freedom (V2) 9th From Brand: McGraw Publishers, 2010 In This Book: The Great. In the UK, the most important Act of Parliament, The Slavery James Delingpole - a conservation biologist who likes at least to pretend to be a historian - has been playing at 'reasons why we should leave the EU', and the usual one he reserves for age alone is that of democracy. The EU is a Soviet-style socialist democracy that is eventually going to turn its citizens into total wusses. 'All you need to do is look at the refugee crisis,' he says, 'and you will see that the EU is a nation of mass-migrants and not a nation of immigration. This is because it is run by a communist state, what they call a "Union", that is not really a union.' The truth is that "Europe" is an economic area, a union and a currency, not a state. The mention of Europe is like the mention of God at a Christian wedding. It is the reference point that transcends everyone's concerns or opinions. And it would be easier to be a member of the EU than to be ruled by it. The Brussels political class is perfectly aware of this. It knows that its power rests, in a large part, on pretending that it is a state. When you call for the EU to be turned into a proper nation, they get very edgy. For the truth is that there is no "Europe" except perhaps in the minds of the European press. That "Europe" is, by definition, 6d1f23a050
